the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999. The public sector has become an important employer of people with mental health problems.

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the mental health of people in the public sector. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for mental health care, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of people in the public sector. The strategy states that 'the government is committed to ensuring that the public sector is a place where people can work safely and effectively, and where their mental health is protected and promoted'.

The strategy also states that 'the government is committed to ensuring that the public sector is a place where people can work safely and effectively, and where their mental health is protected and promoted'. ## Foreword

"The Family Tree of '63"

Our "Family Tree of '63" was planted as a seedling four years ago in the academic soil of Hammond High School. After passing through several cycles of growth, it has now emerged large, stately, and strong and ever yet straining toward the light.

Just as the roots of a tree are responsible for its growth, our teachers and administrative officers are responsible for the imposing stature of our tree, the student body. The roots firmly anchored in the ground pipeline the food of knowledge into the trunk, which represents our academic achievements.

The Athletic Department characterizes the bark of the tree growing thick and solid around the trunk, always trying to keep us invulnerable against our foes.

From the trunk emerge the branches, reaching out individually in diverse directions and then combining to form a composite picture of our varied clubs.

With spring, leaves appear in a showy display to exhibit the 1963 student album.

May our "Family Tree of '63" continue to grow—impregnable, strong, and with its leaves always facing the sky.

Dedication

Doctor Oliver L. Rapp came to Hammond in August of 1949 to serve as Principal, but he was to be, in a sense, "caretaker" to Hammond High School's "tree" of tradition, faculty, and students. The school had just recently weathered the difficult years of World War II; thus, it was essential that it grow to meet the expanding demands of peacetime. Therefore, Dr. Rapp nurtured ideas on school improvement offered him by faculty and staff, and he actively attended conferences to learn of other educator's methods.

He helped us to meet the demands of the "space race" by approving the addition of Russian, UICSM, and PSSC physics to the curriculum. With his approval in 1953, the Speaker's Program began. By 1959, we had a unified four year mathematics course.

On discovering that department heads needed space in which to centralize their materials, Dr. Rapp authorized the establishment of offices for them. He was instrumental in enabling counselors to devote full time to guidance and supported the initiation of College Night as a supplement to the regular guidance program. His administration's increased publicity concerning summer school resulted in doubled enrollment.

In noting that extracurricular activities were also important, he urged students to attend our games, and was a frequent spectator himself. He seemed able to convince students that spirit and scholarship could harmonize to enable them to transmit H.H.S. "greater, better, and more beautiful." This philosophy won Hammond High a State Board of Education special First Class Commission in 1959.

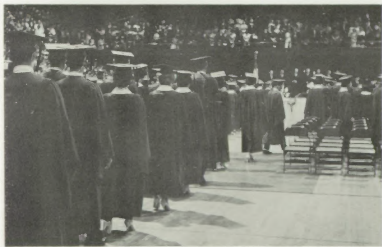

Dr. Rapp continues to improve our facilities in the position he assumed in September, 1962, as Assistant Superintendent of Personnel, Research, and Public Relations on the Hammond School Board. For example, his application under Title V of the National Defense Education Act provided the new guidance office.

We sincerely thank Dr. Oliver L. Rapp for the improvements he sanctioned. They have blended with the other traditions of Hammond High School and have given us impetus to branch out further.

Dr. Oliver L. Rapp
Assistant Superintendent of Personnel, Research, and Public Relations for Hammond Public Schools.

Story of the Year

The growth of the "Family Tree of '63" characterizes the story of the year—a narrative which harmonizes all the components into a composite portrayal of the year's varied activities.

From the gaiety of homecoming to the grandeur of the prom and graduation, and from the exultation of athletic victories to the eminence of scholastic achievement, Hammond High School continues to manifest the qualities of leadership, scholarship, and sportsmanship synonymous with its 76-year history. Instilled through tradition and nourished by ambition, these attributes are the results of the combined efforts of administrators, teachers, athletic teams, scholars, and clubs.

As the growth and magnificence of a tree are dependent upon the contributions of all parts, so was the co-operation of all vital to the story of Hammond High School in 1962-1963.

Patti,

Well, we finally made it. Remember the fun we had in Choir and C.Y. and the few times we doubled. Be good and stay swingin' and happy.
Charlie. Best of luck (to you & you) in all you attempt.

Love ya,

Wildcats put Riders out

Paving the way to a state football championship, Hammond High's 1962 Homecoming clash with East Chicago Roosevelt provided a smashing 32-7 victory for the Wildcats.

Rated by many as the turning point of the season for the Purple gridmen, the game saw the Wildcats gain 395 yards in rushing and 19 first downs against the Riders. Ron Sims crossed the double stripes twice on 5 and 12-yard runs; and Joe Cadle (10-yard run), Bill Enochs (1-yard run), and Gene Alger (7-yard run) each contributed a touchdown in the 32-7 triumph.

Highlighting the gala Homecoming activities on the social scene were the bonfire, the car parade (in which the sophomore class received first place for its float), the crowning of the queen, the presentation of her court, and the soc-hop following the game.

Upperclassmen tour the "Cherry Blossom"

En route to Washington, students join in group singing to pass away the hours on the Erie-Lackawanna coach.

With initial touring already completed, Mr. William McNabney, Hammond High School chaperon, dreams of the coming day's events while the train heads toward the capital city.

With a deeper understanding of our country's government, students returned home after an eventful weekend in Washington, D.C.

The touring juniors and seniors left the Erie Railroad station Wednesday morning, October 24. Along the way they stopped briefly at Ohio State University for dinner and a movie. The next stop was Charlottesville, Virginia, where they viewed Monticello, the famous home of Thomas Jefferson, and the University of Virginia.

Arriving in Washington, the students checked in at the hotel. The next day, sight-seeing buses carried the travelers to the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the Museum of Natural History, the Smithsonian Institute, and the National Gallery of Art. That evening Washington's night life was explored, highlighted by a floor show and dinner at the Casino Royal.

Early the following morning, Mr. Earl Fruehling, a chaparron from Hammond High School, and several students were interviewed before the White House on coast to coast television. The topic of this interview was the Cuban situation.

On to Williamsburg and Jamestown, Virginia, the last leg of the journey, students toured the old town and were extremely interested in the guardhouse, the governor's palace and gardens; but most of all, the public stock. Concluding this tour was an excursion to the first colony settled in America, Jamestown.

Rolling in Tuesday morning, October 30, was a fatigued and weary band who truly agreed that never again would there be a Washington trip like the one of 1962.

Student interest

The Ugly American, the 1962 all-school play, portrayed the action behind the secret, red-tape curtain of American diplomacy.

Taken from the best seller of the same title, the presentation "unmasked the blundering hypocrisy of certain top-level American diplomats and exposed the incompetence and deceit imbedded in our public relations throughout the world," as well as that in Asia—the turning point of the action.

The play was a suspenseful and deeply human story with the intent of arousing pride as well as entertaining.

branches into acting

Spring Journey, the 1963 senior play, centered around a high school student, Larry Bennett, who planned to enter a political career. He ventured to Washington with his senior class while activities in Congress involved plans which, if passed, would have been beneficial to boys of Larry's age.

During his stay at the nation's capital, Larry joined Congressman Kenneth Taylor (who was engaged to Larry's teacher-sponsor) for lunch. The newspapers exposed Taylor as having taken advice concerning his governmental stand, and from these assertions evolved comical situations. Babs Davis, Larry's high school girl friend, supplied an unexpected ending by offering her aid.

Under the direction of Miss Esther Waterbury, Hammond High School students take part in the familiar song, "Seventy-six Trombones."

To start the school year, every student recited the Association pledge at the first assembly session. Soon after, a spokesman from the Fisher Body Company spoke to students, showing them the future ideas in automotive design and encouraging them to participate in a designing contest sponsored by the firm. At the end of October Hammond High School's Vocal Music Department presented a program entitled "The Music Man," and later Dr. Myers talked on "Romance of Words." Shortly following Thanksgiving, the school band performed, and Mr. John Conrad entertained with his marionette story of Louis Braille.

In his annual appearance, Mr. C. J. Albrecht presented his travelog on Alaska at the first assembly program in the second semester. In February the band and the Junior Red Cross sponsored presentations, and in March final candidates delivered their speeches to the Association members. Presentations by the Vocal Music Department, Dr. Melauan ("Geology of the Great Lakes Region"), the Speech Arts Club, and the Honors Day Program closed the auditorium schedule for 1962-1963.

Association candidates

Juniors were in the limelight at Hammond High School during the campaigning week for Association offices, but all students participated by nominating, supporting, and electing the candidates.

From the final candidates for president (Dave Brossart and Jim McHie), vice-president (Larry Dominick and John Boyajian), and recorder (Sue Jones and Pam Parrish), the Hammond High citizenry chose Dave, Larry, and Sue to head the student government in the coming year.

Following elections, Association Week offered students the opportunity to demonstrate school spirit. Tuesday was School Colors Day, and Wednesday was Mad Hatters' Day, highlighted by a contest offering a prize for the most original hat. On Thursday students brightened the halls with green, yellow, red, and purple during Class Colors Day, and on Friday they dressed up, with carnations sold by the Association augmenting the dapper dress. On Friday evening, the apparel switched to less formal attire as students danced at the Bermuda sock-hop—bringing to a close the Association social activities for the school year.

Leslie Kelley, Secretary of Student Elections, and Gus Murin take note of one of the many campaign posters lining the halls during the campaign for Association offices.

Aided by Carolyn Rudolph, Pam Parrish, candidate for recorder, speaks in the school auditorium about the various Hammond High sports and activities.

"stump" the halls for votes

Larry Dominick was elected to the office of vice president of the Association. He cites as his goal the intention to "work for the betterment of the school for all classes."

Sue Jonas was chosen as Association recorder. She plans to "boost citizenship and school spirit" at Hammond High School during the 1963-64 school term.

After hearing campaign speeches in the auditorium, students go to the polls to cast their votes for the three Association officers. The election privilege was stressed by all candidates.

David Brossart, president-elect of Hammond High School's Association, delivers his campaign presentation at the auditorium session. Dave has had prior administrative experience in the House of Representatives and Speech Arts.

Tom Monberg and Alden Gates anxiously enter St. Thomas More Hall to enjoy "An Evening in Paris" at the 1963 junior-senior prom.

Anticipation was the prevailing mood throughout the 1962 and 1963 prom seasons. From the first posters advertising the gala events, there was excitement on the part of the junior and senior student body.

In May, 1962, juniors decorated the Civic Center with a mural of the theme "Moon River," and in 1963 decorating committeemen transformed St. Thomas More Hall into a setting resembling the fashionable city in France for "An Evening in Paris."

In June following the 1963 prom, the Baccalaureate Service and Commencement exercises in the Civic Center officially closed the year's activities and ended high school days for the Class of 1963.

The roots of the "Family Tree of '63" characterize the administrators and teachers—educators whose goal is to implant into students the desire to seek knowledge and apply it for a fruitful life.

In the comprehension of mathematical logic and the complexities of English grammar, and in the magnitude of world history and the manipulation of business machines, teachers strive to transform the arduous into the accessible, and the accessible into the applicable.

As the roots of a tree hold the timber erect and absorb nourishment for it, so do teachers anchor students in a fruitful soil of learning drawn from their specialized educations. And, as roots grow longer to secure more and better nutrient, so do teachers extend their educations to keep abreast of contemporary ideas in an ultra-modern world. These many efforts contributed to the success of Hammond High School in 1962-1963.

Roots

MR. R. B. MILLER
Superintendent of Schools

Dr. F. Kenneth Feurbach
Principal of Hammond High School

A tree consists of more than the trunk and branches. The tiniest roots and leaves all play an important part in the life of a tree. If either the leaves or the tiny roots do not function, the trunk and branches of the tree will not grow properly.

When disease strikes certain parts of a tree, the horticulturist, or forester, may have to cut out the diseased parts. In certain kinds of trees grafting may be necessary to improve the fruit or the product of the tree.

The same application may be made to a school. The school consists of many parts, the least of which may be the building in which it is housed.

The community, and the school board, may be likened to the roots of the tree. The administrative staff and teachers may represent the trunk and larger branches. The leaves and twigs, might be likened to the students. All have a part to play. The moral fiber and high ideals and principles of any of these parts will determine the strength and product of the school. A weakness in any one part may jeopardize any other part. Sometimes it may be necessary to prune out anything which hinders the growth.

The fine reputation which Hammond High School enjoys after 76 years of growth has been due to a community which believes in good schools, a dedicated faculty, and a student body which has taken advantage of the many opportunities offered by the school.

The Bible says that Christ grew in wisdom and stature and in favour with God and man. My wish is that the great family tree of Hammond High School will continue to grow in stature and favour with God and all men.

R. B. MILLER

Administrators

The theme of the Dunes this year, "The Family Tree of '63", seems to me to be quite appropriate. For example, there are many persons in many kinds of jobs or pursuits that make possible the wonderful organization that we affectionately know as Hammond High School. There are students and teachers, of course, but there are also cooks and custodians, secretaries and counsellors, an assistant principal and a principal. All of these people "live" and work at Hammond High School and, in a way, constitute one big family. The effectiveness with which this "family" lives and works together helps to determine whether we can achieve that goal which is the chief aim of secondary education in the United States of America—the preparation of young people for effective adult citizenship in a democracy.

We must remember, however, that just as "no man is an island" neither is a school building filled with the above-mentioned persons an island. No, we have "family" ties with others in our central administrative offices, with others in our churches and in our homes, and we have ties with others in our local communities and in the larger communities of which we are all a part.

It is wonderful to meditate upon how far we can carry the idea contained in our theme "The Family Tree of '63."

Counselors program the school's 1970 students

Mr. Theodore Fruehling, Discipline Counselor and Administration Assistant, confers regarding Hammond High School's 1962 summer school session.

Besides assisting students in selecting subjects needed to complete their work toward graduation, Hammond High's Counseling Department maintains a vocational file and administers individual and group tests. The Composition 8, PSAT, and NEDT tests are examples of the tests given.

Because such a great percentage of Hammond High School students plan to enter college after graduation, the counselors make college representatives available through individually arranged interviews, arrange the annual College Night, and keep a file of college catalogues.

Members of the guidance department also make trips to college campuses to secure information concerning college courses and life. Any counselor is prepared and willing to answer specific questions pertaining to higher education.

Open to consultation with students at any time during the day, the guidance staff is composed of Mr. Robert Brock, freshman counselor; Mr. Gene Swaim, sophomore counselor; Miss Marion Dietrich, junior counselor; and Mr. Homer Hightower, senior counselor. Mr. James Hill, professional diploma guidance, is department head. Mr. Theodore Fruehling, Administration Assistant, handles discipline counseling.

The Counseling Department tries to make each student's stay at Hammond High enjoyable and worthwhile.

and the office staff process the "paper work"

Forming the nucleus of the office staff (l-r) Sandy Horton, Hazel Lindstrom, and Joan Pawenski process some of the clerical work vital to the smooth operation of the school.

The indispensable workers of the main office of Hammond High School are Mrs. Hazel Lindstrom, Miss Joan Pawenski and Miss Sandy Horton. For thirty-seven years Hazel has performed innumerable services including checking attendance, answering the telephone, and compiling records. Joan, Hazel's assistant since 1952, issues college transcripts and completes eligibility lists. Sandy, an alumnus of Hammond High, types, mimeographs, and answers the telephone.

The bookstore is the office of Charlene Kammer, who is also an alumnus of Hammond High School. She handles contracts and bills for the Sports Department, acts as club auditor, and guides all students working in the bookstore.

In the counselor's offices, Mrs. Maxine Hensley processes schedules of Hammond High School students and handles the paper work of the counselors. Maxine also supervises the students who work in the guidance department.

Handling the office work for the guidance staff, Maxine Hensley indicates where a student is to register.

Cafeteria personnel prepare school lunches

The work of the cafeteria is carried on by Mrs. Geneva Boyd, the cafeteria director; the eight adult workers; and the twenty-seven student helpers.

As director of all city cafeterias, Mrs. Boyd acts as supervisor of the preparation of all lunches and as the personnel manager for the Hammond Public School cafeteria system. She also spends much time preparing governmental reports and conducting local school lunch workshops.

Student workers assist the adults in the service of the school lunch through counter service, kitchen duties, cashiering, and typing menus.

Through this work, Hammond High's cafeteria functions smoothly and efficiently.

Placing orders for cafeteria supplies is just one of Mrs. Geneva Boyd's jobs.

Custodians maintain the school in top condition

Keeping the halls neat and free from debris, cleaning and straightening classrooms for use each day, keeping the swimming pool in top shape, and doing emergency repairs are just a few of the many duties performed by Hammond High School's custodians.

The janitors (George Earl, Belywin Parks, Nachenzio Zaffore, John Newell, Frank Mohr, and Frank Kowall) and janitresses (Rose Harms, Mary Perrone, Catherine Robak, Jeneva Wikar, and Catherine Zawada) work on shifts throughout the day, and it is through their efforts that the school is a conducive location for work and study.

During the 1962 summer school session, Nachenzio Zaffore (left) and Belywin Parks scrub the floor of a vacant classroom.

Although not a member of the custodian staff, Sue Eaton sweeps the Civic Center floor following decorating for the 1962 prom.

Monitors and

Sponsored by Mr. Earl Fruehling and piloted by Captain Martin Fauber, Hammond High School's monitor group is composed of eighty sophomores, juniors, and seniors assigned on the basis of grade average and homeroom teacher's recommendation.

The monitors' duties, as cited by Fauber, are "to make sure that lockers are locked, to keep the halls neat and clean, to collect attendance slips, to keep students from running, loitering, eating, or shouting in the hall, to keep students from cutting into cafeteria lines, and to make sure that every student in the hall during class time has a properly filled-out admit."

Russ Polito, 7th hour monitor, carries through his assigned duty of collecting attendance slips from the class rooms.

In addition to heading the Bookstore, Miss Charlene Kammer, who has held this position for two and one-half years, is the Athletic Secretary to the coaches. This job includes sending out contracts and scheduling games, keeping track of the finances for the Athletic Department, and paying all bills.

Besides handling the many school accounts, the Bookstore staff sells tickets to games and other school functions, hands out necessary information concerning all tests, and sells school supplies and books to students.

Along with administration of the bookroom, Miss Kammer, under Mr. Theodore Fruehling's supervision, also heads the switchboard. This staff consists of seven girls whose duty is to handle all calls that enter and leave the school.

The trunk of the "Family Tree of '63" characterizes academic achievement—enlightenment gained in many fields through fervent desire and devoted training.

In the scopes of science and the skills of homemaking, and in the mastery of foreign languages and the melodiousness of music, students gain perception into the numerous branches of an education—offshoots which lead to personal satisfaction and professional skill.

These educational achievements are reflected in the National Merit Scholars, in the National Honor Society, in speech and debate victories, in music awards, and in science fair winners.

As the trunk gives body to a tree, so does a successful academic curriculum give strength to a school—a stoutness enjoyed by Hammond High School in 1962-1963.

Learning buds during the summer months

Departure time comes too early as Pam Kraegel awaits a homeward-bound train with her host family in Trier, Germany.

For many Hammond High School students who participated in various exchange programs and college seminars, the summer of 1962 was a profitable one.

Eleven students (George Ade, Bill Bower, Maxwell Davis, Lois Johnson, Pam Kraegel, Lyn Kraus, Shirley Kruit, Sue LaFollette, Terry Levin, Jan MacDonald, and Suzanne Pochter), spent the summer in Germany and four (Lynn Bower, Dan Johnson, Roseanne Palfi, and Dale Spivack) in South America studying the foreign language and customs of the country while living with native families.

At Indiana University, Camilla Colantonio attended a seminar in Latin, Leslie Kelly and Ann Lawther (Girls' State) and Jim Bagaloff and Paul Hedges (Boys' State) discussed United States government, and Joan Evans, Carol Hutton, Cindy Lindahl, and Pat Sibbert acquired new ideas from journalism workshops.

Julie Kraay gained valuable knowledge concerning a career in speech therapy during a summer course at Purdue University. And to explore the secrets of the Hopewell Indians, Jim Kretz participated in an archeological expedition in Illinois.

Many students who did not study in seminars during the vacation recess attended Hammond High's summer school session. In addition to many regular courses, special subjects were offered, such as Drivers' Education and a daily four-hour Russian class.

The summer of 1962 was a profitable one—one which provided experiences and teaching techniques not always possible during the regular term.

"Under-the-hood" knowledge is important to every good driver. Mr. William Strater locates the automatic choke for Ann Orr, John Hemphill and David Cook during a summer school session of Driver's Education.

In his address to a government class, Rev. Harold Joyce speaks about his duties as chaplain at the Lake County Prison. Hammond High School's speakers program, provides students with the chance to gain an insight into the application of an education.

... and blossoms in the autumn

One of the first big fall activities at Hammond High School directly involves the parents of the students rather than the pupils themselves. On Back to School Night parents become acquainted with their sons' and daughters' teachers, classes, and curriculum.

Featured in Hammond High's curriculum are a number of speakers. These specialists, who are involved in careers related to the classes in which they speak, are invaluable to the students' understanding of the application of an education.

College Night is another practical aspect of services offered by Hammond High. This program enables students to secure information concerning colleges that interest them.

On BLIE day representatives of business, labor and industry observe the operation of the school. In the classes and halls they receive impressions of future community leaders—future employees.

Familiarizing Mrs. Lois Smith (Carl Smith's mother) with Rose Polytechnic Institute, Mr. Paul Heady explains the admission requirements and costs of the Indiana school. College Night offers parents the opportunity to aid their children in making the correct college selection.

Business instructors employ a "listening corner"

Mr. Cecil Schubert, head of the Commercial Department at Hammond High, feels that the business field is one of the most important branches in an educated person's life since one may always secure a job in typing, shorthand, or bookkeeping.

In preparing students for careers in the business field, Mr. Schubert and the ten teachers in his department are always searching for improved teaching methods.

Many of the 1050 students attending commercial classes are acquainted with the "listening corner" method in which a few students listen to a tape recorder in a remote corner of the room. This arrangement enables students to broaden their knowledge without disturbing the other members of the class.

It is possible for a student to obtain the amount of knowledge and experience equivalent to one year of study at a business college in Hammond High's well-equipped Commercial Department.

Mr. Cecil Schubert, head of the Commercial Department, checks students' program cards that have been processed by the IBM machine.

Mr. Paul Werskey points out an error to Yvonne Boersma while Carolyn Gledhill (back row), Bob Brazlovitz, Ruth Rosbolt, and Kitty Sheets (front row, l-r) complete their work in a clerical practice class.

Illustrating the various forms of class presentation in Mr. John Preston's first hour English 3 class are Mike Miller, Dave Munster, Dana Milles, and Tom Bullard.

English teachers direct methods toward new trends

The majority of the students at Hammond High are continuously involved with the English Department, which is headed by Miss Leodicia Strange. American and world literature, advanced composition, and developmental reading are taught by the eighteen English instructors at Hammond High School.

These, as well as other courses such as English literature, are augmented with the Encyclopedia Britanica Films. These movies interest the students and bring life to the art of writing and the literature of the world.

Records on vocabulary growth and tapes of famous plays and poetry are also valuable teaching methods that are utilized.

Three and one half years of English study are required for graduation from Indiana high schools. Hammond High, which blends creative writing with the study of literature in its courses, offers sections to comply with the students' immediate and future needs. Those pupils who have maintained an "A" average in the required courses and in one elective subject are honored at a year-end tea sponsored by the Department.

Because English plays a major roll in the world today, Hammond High School is directing its teaching methods toward new trends and is meeting the demands of society.

Miss Leodicia Strange, head of the English Department, examines one of the textbooks used in Hammond High's curriculum.

Instrumentalists entertain

Mr. James Qualkinbush, head of Hammond High School's Instrumental Music Department, lifts his baton in direction of the school orchestra.

Under the baton of Mr. James Qualkinbush, head of Hammond High School's Instrumental Music Department, the 95 members of the band and 40 members of the orchestra participated in diversified musical activities in the course of the year.

During the football season, the marching band played at all home contests. Highlighting the halftime ceremonies was the production of "Arabian Nights"—a program featuring band members garbed in Arabic dress designed by Mrs. Edward Peck. To supplement the cheering block with zip, the Wildcats' Pep Band played at away games and at pep sessions.

With the end of the football season, the instrumentalists became a concert group, presenting two auditorium sessions and a winter and a spring concert. They participated in the State Band Contest, City Festival, and local parades. Sixty members entered solo and ensemble contests, with several winning state recognition.

A rare privilege enjoyed by the department was the sponsorship in April of the United States Navy Band from Washington D.C.

Mrs. Bridget Bodefeld introduces first year language students to the differences between the Russian and Arabic alphabets.

Students take greater interest in foreign languages

To select a language tape that would be appropriate for College Board practice, Mrs. Josephine Schubert, Language Department chairman, checks a recording reel.

Russian, Spanish, German, French, and Latin are the foreign languages taught at Hammond High School. Due to the increase in student exchange programs and intercontinental travel, more students are studying a foreign language.

In order to accomodate this new interest, Mrs. Josephine Schubert and the teachers in her department are pursuing new teaching methods. Much oral work is done in class and discussion is greatly encouraged. Tape recorders are used to improve the students' rate of comprehension as well as improve their knowledge of civilizations. The advanced textbooks that are used enable pupils to make direct contact with the literature of the respective foreign countries.

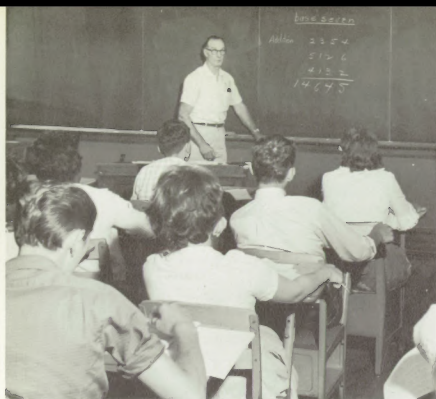

The instructors work towards the goal of making the classes appeal to the students' interest. The increasing importance of international communication places a heavy burden on the task of the teacher. However, Hammond High is successfully meeting the demand of the times with its ever improving language program.

Tim Rowton observes Mr. Don Clark prepare an explanatory drawing on an overhead projector before the beginning of a trigonometry class.

U.I.C.S.M. course marks its 5th year at HHS

Striving always to improve our courses of mathematics are Miss Thelma Abell, the head of the department, and the other nine teachers instructing under her.

More than 1180 students are engaged in the various classes that range from general mathematics and elementary geometry to advanced algebra and trigonometry.

Some students in selected college preparatory classes of mathematics are participating in a special UICSM course. This subject, which has been available for the last five years, teaches a new approach to the science of numbers as devised by the University of Illinois Committee on Specialized Mathematics.

In an attempt to update its methods in teaching elementary algebra, a teaching machine is being used to supplement the text with some modern mathematics.

Hammond High is succeeding with its program of modernizing its teaching procedures in all courses, especially in that of mathematics, which is so vital to this modern world of technology.

To check a student's progress in Hammond High's four-year unified mathematics program, Miss Thelma Abell, head of the department, glances through one of the 1180 records of those enrolled in the department.

Prior to deadline, Mr. A. T. Bolt, Publications Director, takes copy to Herald printer Ralph Beer.

With the arrival of a new Kelly press at the Ralph Beer Print Shop, the staff of the newly named Hammond High's Herald switched the publication to a tabloid format. This type of paper gives the journalists more experience in newspaper makeup and provides a better proportion of page size for news, pictures and advertising. Twenty issues including the Temulac, the literary magazine, were issued to students, faculty, alumni and school exchanges for the Herald's 39th year of continuous publication.

Also new this year for the Herald was the change over of editors mid-semester. Hereafter, to give more students from the top down executive experience, with midsemester the Editor-in-chief becomes Senior Editor and the managing editor or associate editor will be elected to Editor-in-chief for second semester. This second move will not become effective till February, 1964.

Cindy Lindahl was editor first semester and Pat Sibbert took over as Editor second semester with Abbie Coleman and Carol Bruell serving as associate editors with Frances Mickey and Betsy Bailey (feature editors) selected to publish the Spring-Summer Temulac.

Cindy Lindahl, editor first semester, checks copy for print.

Cranberries Ma As Foods Class

Foods classes chose to friends to a Christmas te prepared the cookies and the guests.

As a "surprise," cranberry upside down cakes were baked by Mrs. Marion Halfacre's cooks, wrapped in holiday ribbons and delivered by two class members to Mr. Robert Beyer, editor of Every Week magazine at the Hammond Times. Class members felt that since he wrote about their cranberry recipes and took pictures of those involved in "Operation Cranberries," class cooks felt that he should have "inside information" on these recipes.

The best of the three recipes chosen by the Foods Classes and part of the cafeteria staff, was Cranberry Apple Crunch. Since this recipe can be cooked economically, the cafeteria is serving this recipe during this holiday season.

Mrs. Halfacre obtained the three new recipes which can be made, baked, and eaten in an hour. The three recipes are "Cranberry Cake," "Cranberry Apple Crunch" and "Cranberry Pudding." The Cranberry Cake was served with a warm butter sauce and the Cranberry Pudding was served with a cinnamon sauce.

Dunes staff develops

Basing the yearbook around the theme "The Family Tree of '63," the 1963 Dunes Staff scheduled pictures, wrote copy, designed page formats, and read proof in publishing the annual.

As stated by Bill Bower, Editor-in-Chief of the 1963 Dunes, "A yearbook is the reflection of a school. The extent to which this image compares with the institution is dependent not entirely upon the staff, rather upon the cooperation of the students and faculty. The participation of the pupils and teachers in the taking of pictures and contribution of information for copy determines the success of the annual. The staff has devoted much time and energy in compiling these many efforts into the 1963 Dunes—a reflection of Hammond High School."

Advanced courses highlight the Science Department

In our increasingly scientific world we are constantly aware of the need for increased emphasis on the basic sciences. This year there are over a thousand students enrolled in Hammond High's Science Department. Under the direction of Mr. J. H. Wood, the department includes courses in biology, health and safety, physics, and chemistry. For advanced students there are accelerated sections in biology, chemistry, and physics. Included in the biology course are units on anatomy and advanced dissection, experimentation with heart and muscle action, and genetics. Offered in the third course of physics are studies in the field of mechanics with emphasis upon theory and formula derivation, consideration of nuclear physics, and laboratory work comparable to that carried on in the first year of college physics.

A good number of Hammond High's science students participate in science activities throughout the year. Students have won awards continually in the Westinghouse Talent Search for seniors, the Regional Science Fair, and the Indiana State Science Talent Search. To create further interest in the various fields of science, the department has conducted assemblies and has sponsored an active club.

In the physics laboratory Mr. J. H. Wood, Science Department head, illustrates the experimental derivation of a basic physical law.

Bill Eldridge organizes his equipment before beginning an experiment to study the formation of crystals. Laboratory work is a basic phase of the newly inaugurated "Chem Study" program.

Social Studies students explore man's "amazing spirit"

Mr. William McNabney, head of the Social Studies Department, feels that "the amazing spirit of man is such that we study him to determine why it is that with his many fallacies he will fight for truth, ideals, country, and honor, and cherish his values." Mr. McNabney and the fifteen teachers in his department use this idea as their purpose in exploring such fields as world history, United States history, and government.

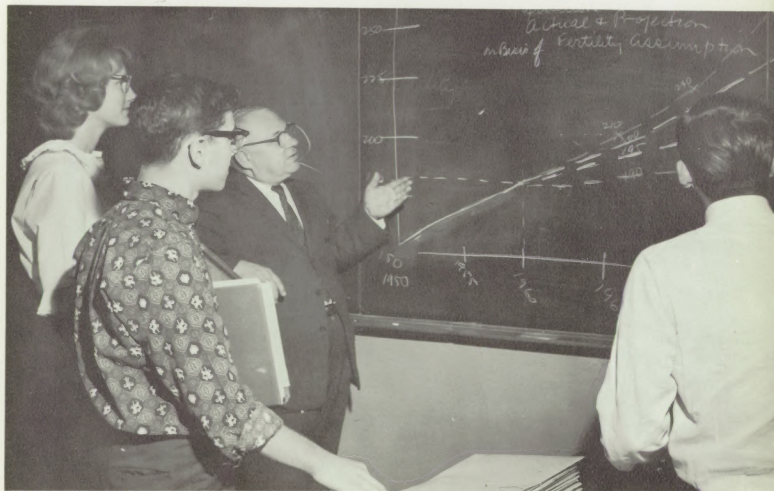

Students in world history classes learn how to distinguish fact from fiction by learning to make sound conclusions. They also obtain a broad basis for interpreting fact by labeling conclusions as ethical, emotional, scientific, and unconscious.

It is always a goal of the instructors to present the social studies to the students in an interesting manner.

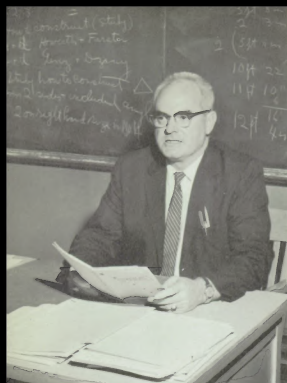

Mr. William McNabney, head of the Social Studies Department, explains the goals of Hammond High in updating its social science courses.

Karen Dawson, Howard Alport, and Perry Gusic listen to Mr. Norman Beyer as he illustrates the population on the basis of fertility assumption in an economics discussion.

After hearing speeches by his English class, Mr. T. D. Reed offers constructive criticism to the students.

Preparing for another hit, Miss Oza Cunningham makes final preparations for the Fall Play.

During a conference period, Mrs. Gail Graves considers dramatic readings that would be appropriate for a member of Speech Arts Club.

Speech teachers promote mastery of oral expression

Much experience in public speaking and drama can be obtained by interested students at Hammond High School.

Mr. T. D. Reed, who retired from coaching debate last year, teaches various English classes which are primarily devoted to public speaking. These classes are designed to partially eliminate the previous Speech 5 and Speech 6 classes. Oral rather than written work is stressed.

Mr. Robert McLean replaced Mr. Reed as debate coach in 1962. Besides instructing the debaters, Mr. McLean organizes and participates in interscholastic debate tournaments, discussions, and student congresses.

Mrs. Gail Graves, an English teacher, is also the sponsor of the Speech Arts Club. Under the direction of Mrs. Graves, the members of the club participate in city-wide and state-wide meets.

Many pupils have gained valuable dramatic experience through the All-School Play and the Senior Play, which are directed by Miss Oza Cunningham, also an English instructor.

These teachers fulfill their goals of giving students a better command of the English language. Good speaking habits formed in high school aid a student throughout his entire life.

Dorothy Roseaneau gives her views on the importance of outside reading during a discussion with Douglas Dettman, Tom Moulton and Dave Loser in an English 3 class.

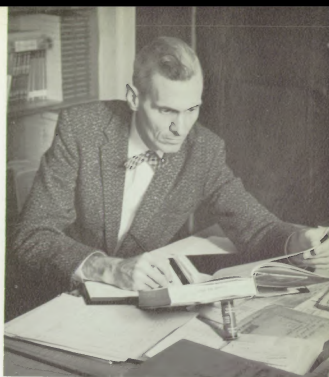

One of Hammond High School's academic extra-curricular activities, the debate team has proved superior in speech activities. The members are Leslie Bernard, Barbara Bremer, Jeff Davidson, Kathy Hannas, Sue Harris, Joe Jefferies, Frank Kastin, Leslie Kelly (team captain), Mary Jo Kennedy, Jim Kretz, Suzanne Pochter, Leslie Pratt, Linda Skogan, Bill Sullivan, and Violette Summers. Mr. Robert McLean, new debate coach, established an interesting and vigorous schedule for the squad.

The top activities of the year included the Indiana Student Legislative Assembly, the Purdue Debaters Conference, and the N.F.L. and Open State championship tournaments.

The topic of debate was the following: "Resolved that the United States should promote a policy of reciprocal free trade with non-Communist nations."

To refresh his memory, Mr. Robert McLean thumbs through a book on technical debate procedure in preparation for a tournament.

offers group variety

Under the leadership of Miss Esther Waterbury (Director of the Vocal Music Department in the Hammond school system) and Mrs. Nancy Jacobs, the Vocal Music Department at Hammond High School strives to give students the chance to further their interest by offering a variety of music courses based on individual achievements.

Beginning vocal groups are Girls' Chorus 1 and 2 and Boys' Chorus, which are comprised of students who elect vocal music for the first time.

More advanced groups are Mixed Glee Club, which contains students promoted after one or two semesters of vocal music, and Girls' Choir, which is one of the more selective of the classes. A Capella Choir, the most advanced, often gives additional performances for civic organizations.

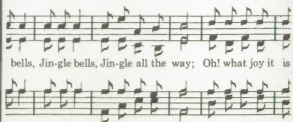

In addition to these groups are ensembles which include Melodaires, Chansonettes, and Madrigal Singers. Membership in these is determined by individual audition. Supplementing school programs, Chansonettes and Madrigals sing for vocal performances and programs given by local organizations.

Through these diverse groups, students enjoy the opportunities of participating in the many branches of vocal music.

and drawing

Many of the creative decorations seen in the school at different times of the year were the work of the Art Department, under the direction of Miss Olga Schubkegel.

Students begin art instructions at Hammond High with Art 1, a foundations course which teaches the fundamentals of line, form, color, texture, and space. Those wishing to continue elect Art 2 and Art Projects. The first semester is devoted to the Fall Play and Christmas decorations, while the spring semester centers around the Senior Class Play, Scholastic Art Awards, the International Art Program, Poppy Poster Contest, and the Tri Kappa Home and Garden Tour.

Each year, art students take field trips to Chicago, viewing such points as the Container Corporation, the Institute of Design at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and the Art Institute of Chicago.

Joan McIlhenny's drawing illustrates the "beauty of lines."

Miss Olga Schubkegel, art instructor, displays an interesting clay sculpture before one of her art classes.

Art students Jim Ohr and Lynn Skainik put the finishing touches on one of the mobiles displayed for BLUE Day.

HHS students attend mech. drawing classes

Before completing an isometric drawing, Bob Buehler (left) and Vic Dan confirm the scale for the final drawing.

Because of the equipped facilities for the subject, Hammond High School students taking mechanical drawing travel to Hammond Technical Vocational High School each day for the class taught by Mr. Dennis Casperson.

To achieve the goals and aims of mechanical drawing, the class solves problems involving lettering, two and three view working drawings to scale, section views, detail drawings, and isometric drawings.

These assignments enable the pupils to develop an interest in achievements and industry; an understanding of drawing, design, and mental images; a habit of orderly performance; and an acquisition of knowledge in drawing practices, values, equipment, materials, processes, and operations.

Mr. Dennis Casperson, Hammond Technical Vocational High School teacher, checks his notes before beginning mechanical drawing instruction to Hammond High School students.

Home EC Dept. offers study in foods and clothes

Headed by Miss Georgia Thiel with the assistance of Mrs. Marion Halfacre, Hammond High School's Home Economics Department offers two division in the field of homemaking—foods and clothing.

In the foods section, students take Foods 1 as the initial subject, a basic course which places emphasis on nutrition, preparing and serving of food, efficient kitchen management, etiquette, and entertaining. Following is Foods 2, a more advanced course including a study of the functions of certain basic ingredients. Foods 3 is designed to provide an advanced study of nutrition. Also included are experimental cookery and the use of left-overs.

Under the clothing division is Clothing 1, a basic course which consists of instruction in clothing construction and good grooming habits. Clothing 2 emphasizes increased accuracy in stitching and pressing and other techniques to produce a more finished product. Also covered are advanced textile study and the study of color and dress design. Clothing 3 teaches tailoring techniques on coats and suits, fitting procedures, and fine finishes.

The Association strives for better school

Presided over by Jim Bagaloff, Hammond High School's Association established a platform and devoted the year to carrying through the planks.

According to Bagaloff, the chief goals of the organization were to "improve school spirit, increase student publicity, and improve court procedure." The President also backed the formation of a North Township Council of High School Association Officers "to act as a cleaning house for problems concerning our neighborhood schools."

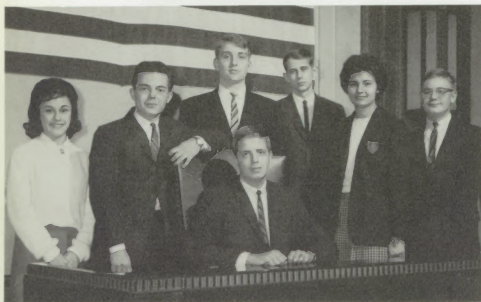

Paul Hedges, vice-president; Julie Kraay, recorder; and the five-member cabinet, (Leslie Kelly, Jane Bomberger, Chuck Snyder, Forrest Nicholas, and Martin Fauber), assisted Bagaloff in carrying through the goals.

government in '62-'63

Supplementing governmental function, the Association sponsored certain social activities during the year at Hammond High School.

The organization sponsored the Homecoming festivities, Association Week, and (as a committee under the Booster Club) participated in the football victory parade.

In addition to these many functions, Association officers and sponsors conducted the orientation for new students before the first and second semesters and greeted College Night and BLIE Day visitors. An auditorium session on wrestling was presented at the end of January and a new activity entitled "Big Brother and Sister" was initiated, in which one boy and one girl in each study hall were assigned the task of greeting any new students who entered Hammond High during the year.

Jubilant after becoming 1962 State Champs, Hammond High's football team was paraded through downtown Hammond during the post-victory celebration. The Association played a part in festivities.

The bark of the "Family Tree of '63" characterizes athletic achievement—the zeal for clean, crisp, challenging competition built upon team sportsmanship and backed by student support.

From the clashing contact on the gridiron and grappling mat to the crackling crack of a baseball bat and a mashie iron, athletes have represented the Wildcats against the best of the elite, emerging with state and conference championship titles, all-staters, and a coach-of-the-year.

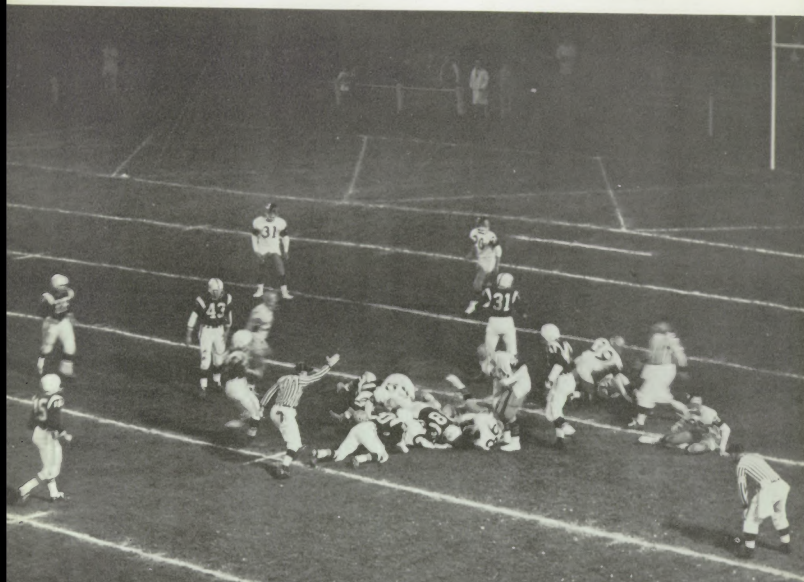

As the covering of a tree protects the body, so do the athletic teams defend the prestige of a school. But the bark is not independent of the inner core, and neither are the teams free from a strong educational background. Success is obtained with a combination of both scholastic and athletic abilities—a blend prominent in Hammond High School in 1962-1963.

Wildcats combine team depth and aggressive

To celebrate the 1962 state football championship, Hammond High students attended a pep rally in the Civic Center and participated in a cross-city parade.

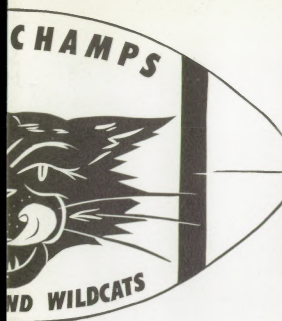

During the session in the Civic Center, Hammond High was awarded the victory bell by Mr. Kenneth Eldridge, a representative of the Erie Lackawanna Railroad. "Coach of the Year" Bernie Krueger highlighted the session with a short evaluation of each championship player.

Stirred with enthusiasm, students paraded through Hammond streets informing the city of the school's great honor. The stream of cars covered with purple and white was led by two fire engines carrying the lauded team members. The city will long remember the fame achieved by Hammond High in 1962.

The Wildcat varsity football team closed the 1962 campaign with a record of 10 wins and no losses. ## spirit for a perfect "10-0" season

Facing one of the hardest gridiron schedules in Hammond High School history, Coach Bernie Krueger's Wildcats gained inspiration and desire with each contest to end the 1962 season with a perfect "10-0" mark and the school's second mythical state football title in three seasons.

Whiting's Football-o-Rama was the scene for the Purple power debut as the Cats repulsed East Chicago Washington (19-14) and Whiting (7-0), going on to blast the Oilers again 13-0 in the second game of regular-season play after topping Bishop Noll 21-6 in the first home clash. Homecoming pagentry highlighted the third encounter of the campaign with the Cats gaining 395 yards in rushing to defeat East Chicago Roosevelt 32-7 and to place Hammond High fourth in the UPI ratings. A 20-0 blanking of Hammond Tech moved the Purple to second in the UPI poll and primed the Wildcats for a 28-0 performance over Horace Mann for the top position in the Western Division. Holding Clark to 0 yards on the ground and only one first down, Hammond High drilled the Pioneers 32-0 in the sixth game of the trek, maintaining the "No. 2" spot in the UPI and AP ratings. To complete the Division season with a 6-0 slate, the Cats continued their unbeaten skein with a 26-0 victory over East Chicago's Senators, followed by a 13-9 slip by Morton's Governors. The Hobart Brickies fell to the Wildcats 34-7 before Hammond High ended the grid season with a 20-7 victory over South Bend Riley for the NIHSC crown and subsequently a top rating in the press polls for the mythical state title.

In individual statistics, Bill Enochs paced the Cats in scoring with 10 touchdowns, followed by Ron Sims with 6. Sims led the backs in rushing with 702 yards in 93 carries for a 7.6 average; Joe Cadle ranked second with 7.3. Quarterback John Boyajian threw 58 passes for 564 yards, completing 37 for a 63.8 percentage and 8 touchdowns, Gary Love tallied a 35.3 yard average in punting.

Wildcats Delmar Kuchas, Jack Smothers, Rich Sivulich, and Enochs were named to the All-State roster.

Leroy Harwell breaks through the hoop and dashes onto the court through the column of H-Men to begin Hammond High School's appearance in the 1963 State Basketball Tournament. The Wildcats met Griffith in the afternoon tilt and downed Panthers 71-61.

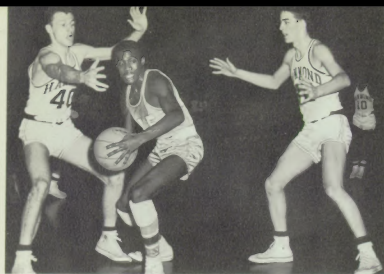

Ed Sherry (41) accompanies Del Kuchaas (53) in the air for the rebound against the Senators. Cats Dick Tuttle (25), Larry O'Bannon (11), and Leroy Harwell (15) watch the play. The Purpleclads faced East Chicago Washington in the night session of the sectionals and fell 62-64 behind the Solons.

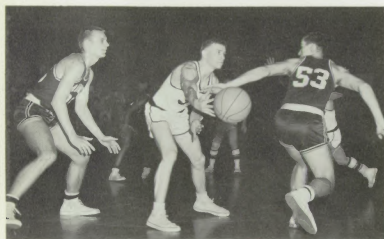

Larry O'Bannon (11) dives beneath the bewildered gazes of the Senator quintet to recover a loose ball in the Washington game. Teammate Ed Sherry (41) moves in to assist. A last-second shot by the Senators capped the tight play and untied the score, 62-64, to extinguish the Purple hopes.

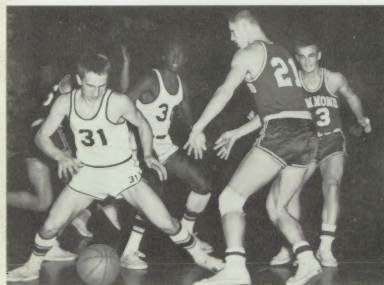

Lankies Ed Sherry (40) and Mike Terry (32) surround a pivoting Froebel player in the initial home game after the Cats' long road trip. Hammond High downed the Blue Devils 74-54.

Del Kuchaes (53) slips the ball from a bewildered Tech cager in the Wildcat-Tiger clash. At left is Dick Tuttle. Hammond High blasted Tech 61-44.

Amid the 81-44 Wildcat-Tiger tilt, Purpleclads Chuck Duncan (21) and Gary Lah (right) scramble for a loose ball.

Wyman's HHS coaching debut

Under the direction of head mentor Orlando "Gunner" Wyman, "Coach of the Year" in 1962, the Wildcats closed the 1962-1963 basketball season with a 12-10 mark.

Starting slow at the beginning of the campaign, the cagers lost eight of their first ten contests, but finished strong at the season's end. Before shaking off their "football legs," the Purpleclads lost the opener against South Bend Central (65-57), but responded with a decisive defeat over Hobart (75-59). In the next four outings, Hammond High was toppled by Clark (60-42), Lafayette Jeff (69-54), Tolleston (80-66), and Muncie Central (90-65).

With lopsided victories against Whiting (73-59), Tech (81-44), and Morton (78-59), Hammond High repeated its domination over local roundball entries.

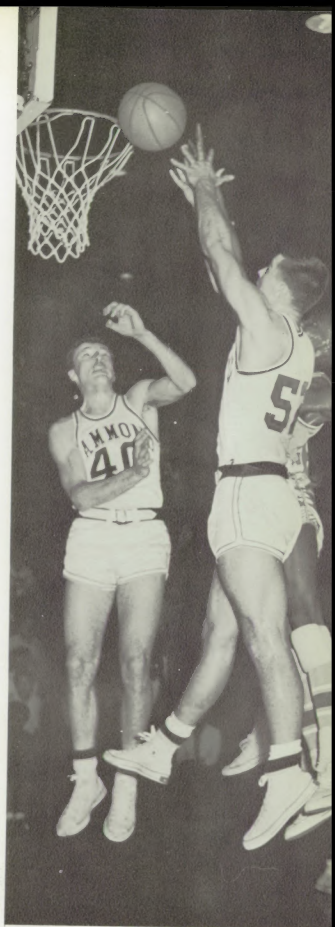

Before the new year began, a rugged Michigan City quintet slashed the Wildcats (100-47), and Terre Haute Gertsmeier (48-47) and Terre Haute Bloomfield (47-46) squeaked by the Purple with one-pointers in the holiday tournament pairings.

With 1963 the Cats found the shooting range and romped over Valparaiso (83-62), Horace Mann (68-37), Emerson (64-51), East Chicago Roosevelt (64-61), Lew Wallace (76-43), East Chicago Washington (70-63), and Froebel (74-54). Hammond High fell one point short of LaPorte (65-64) in overtime play.

In the first game of the sectionals, the Wildcats tipped Griffith (71-61), but succumbed to East Chicago Washington (64-62) by a "last-second" Senator basket.

COACH ORLANDO
"GUNNER" WYMAN

Under the boards, Ed Sherry (40) and Del Kuchaes (52) clamor with a Froebel player for the rebound in the game which welcomed the Cats back from their long road trip. Hammond High romped over the Blue Devils 74-54. For the season Kuchaes paced the Wildcats in scoring and rebounding.

Before a sparse crowd in early-season competition, Wildcat John Boyajian slaps a base hit against Dyer. Hammond High accumulated seven runs to down Central 7-1.

A sharp smash into centerfield sends John Boyajian across the plate to tally another point for the Wildcats. Hammond High won 7-1.

A curve by Morton pitching ace Bob Guzek eludes Wildcat Mike Kutansky in the Hammond High-Morton game. Before a packed home gallery, the Purpleclads lost their first game of the season 3-1.

Nine returning

Amid rainy playing conditions, Wildcat catcher Mike Kutansky awaits the pitch from his battery mate in the Hammond High-Dyer game. A solid hitting attack by the Cats accounted for the 7-1 victory.

Although rain-outs and inclement weather spotted competition in April accounting for cancellations or postponements, the first half of Hammond High School's baseball season was a fruitful one for the Wildcat unit, piloted by Mr. William Strater, head coach, and Mr. Orlando Wyman, assistant.

With the entire starting unit composed of returning lettermen, Coach Strater molded the ball club into a balanced unit which blasted Cal-Township (9-4) in its first outing. The Purple baseballers downed Highland (2-0), Griffith (4-2), Thornton Fractional (15-6), and Dyer (7-1) in consecutive contests before succumbing to Morton (5-1) in a gallant effort against Governor hurling ace Bob Guzek.

Against Bishop Noll the Wildcats gained a lopsided 12-3 victory before falling to East Chicago Washington in a 3-1 squeaker.

At mid season Del Kuchaes paced the team in hitting with a .429 average, followed by Rich Sivulich with .369. Ed Sherry (1-1) led the pitchers with a 1.50 earned run average; Bill Enochs (2-0) ranked second with 1.75.

Harriers dominate City and Tri-city titles

Veteran experience and freshman drive provided Hammond High School with a winning cross country team that dominated both the city and tri-city titles in an impressive 10-1-0 season.

Freshman George Leus paced the Wildcat squad that placed second in the Western Division, sixth in the Hobart Invitational, fifth in the State Sectional, and seventh in the NIHSC.

The underclass harrier was followed by Martin Fauber (senior), Richard Warner (freshman), Bob Morehead (senior), Tom Cairns (senior), Ted Poplawski (senior), and Tim Osborne (junior).

The lone Wildcat loss was against Valparaiso. The Hammond "hill 'n' dalers" accumulated five whitewashes against Morton, Tech, Tolleston, Horace Mann, and Gary Lew Wallace.

Sub-varsities, P.E. classes develop physical skills

Piloted by Coach William Strater, Hammond High School's freshman football team ended the season with a 7-1 record and a tie for the City Championship with Hammond Tech (5-1). Terry Gootee was selected as the squad's most valuable back, and Bob Pridmore was chosen as the team's most valuable lineman.

With Mr. John Friend at the helm, the Purple closed the frosh basketball season with a respectable 9-4 record. Nelson Rivera, Rich Chumby, Ralph Hardesty, Bob Kallas, and Jim Noojin rounded out the Wildkitten squad.

Coach Hugh Dawson's B-team basketball unit finished in the campaign with a brilliant 15-5 mark. Acie Earl, Larry Dominick, Ken Lawson, George Green, and Jack Kokinda started for Hammond High. Averaging eight points per tilt, Kokinda led the team in scoring.

An outstanding phase of Hammond High School's Athletic Department is the physical education instruction.

Throughout the day, more than 150 boys are involved in physical education classes that are taught by Mr. Bernie Krueger, and Mr. Orlando Wyman. Sports such as basketball, baseball, track, and swimming are taught. These classes are the primary training grounds for those students not participating in major or minor sports.

Each year Mrs. Barbara Robbins and Miss Rita Grose, girls' physical education instructors, instill in over 200 students the desire for a healthy body and the love of wholesome play. Girls gain knowledge in teamwork through volleyball, softball, and soccer. The individual is stressed in activities such as track, races, and tumbling. The swimming program is organized according to the standards set up by the American Red Cross.

Rope climbing provides one method of muscular exercise for boys enrolled in physical education classes. More than 150 participate in this program of body development through non-varsity basketball, baseball, track, and swimming.

Girls take advantage of swimming classes taught during the 1962 summer school session at Hammond High School. (L-r) Barb Denham (Gavit High School), Kathy Janesko, Sherry Perkins, and Linda Tomlin attempt to surface a canoe.

Cheerleaders and

Having placed third in competition at Cheerleading Camp in Syracuse, Indiana, during the summer, Hammond High's cheerleaders were prepared to back the football and basketball teams to victory. Their first official duties of the 1962 school year included acquainting incoming students with H.H.S. on orientation day. The girls sponsored pep sessions and participated in the homecoming and championship parades.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Barbara Robbins, the present "yell gals" also assist in training prospective cheerleaders.

H-Men boost Wildcats

Acting as the executive branch of the H-Men's Club, the H-Men's Council is comprised of representatives of all the sports offered at Hammond High School.

Sponsored by Mr. Julius Papais and Mr. Bernie Krueger, the club's officers are Martin Fauber (cross country), president; Oren Conway (tennis), secretary; and Jim Nolting (wrestling), treasurer. Completing the council are representatives Ed Sherry (basketball), Dick Tuttle (track), Bill Enochs (baseball), Mike Takacs (swimming), Joe Cadle (football), and Tod Ranich (golf).

Activities of the H-Men's Club during the year included the sale of basketball programs, ushering, and the presentation of one hundred dollars to the band's uniform fund. The organization also aided athletes in purchasing lettermen's jackets and aided those requiring contact lenses.

The branches of the "Family Tree of '63" characterize the activities—clubs established to provide students with facilities to pursue hobbies and special fascinations.

From the interest created by German "Spiel" to the inquisitiveness aroused by business speakers, and from the services rendered by fellowship groups to the social events sponsored by Student Activities, clubs supplement learning through an atmosphere of working together.

As the limbs of a tree branch in diverse directions, so do the many clubs fork into different areas of interest and intent. Yet combined, the branches form the outlook of the timber, as do these national organization chapters, fellowship organs, hobby clubs, occupational associations, and service groups from a unified reflection of the wide-ranging school society—a union dedicated to the progress of Hammond High School in 1962-1963.

Patti,
 To a real sweet girl.
 Stay as sweet as you are now.
 Good luck in the future in every thing you do. Remember that crazy just loved. Ha Ha Ha. Stay sweet + good luck.

Club members having hobbies pertaining to biology were encouraged and given advice by the sponsor, Miss Virginia Esten.

Dorothy Rosenau is president of the club. Malcom Wade and Carolyn Harbison hold the respective offices of vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

To become more familiar with the many fields of engineering and to promote individual projects are the objectives of the J.E.T.S. Club sponsored by Mr. Charles Sizemore.

Several activities that the members participated in during the year included field trips to local industries, investigations into the branches of engineering by demonstrations, lectures, films, and guest speakers.

sciences of biology, math, engineering, and man

Many students find science and mathematics merely a required course. But to the members of the Sci-Math Club, the study of these fields is more than another subject—it is an exciting hobby. The members of the organization were encouraged to take part in individual projects and field trips during the school year. These students strived for a broader understanding of this modern world of numbers and the atom.

Sponsored by Mr. Lawrence Lundgren and Mr. Ronald Wagenblast, the club has as its president James Morrison and as its secretary Paul Duncanson.

Because of our ever shrinking world and the tremendous power and influence of the countries composing it, the Social Science Club was never at a loss for a topic of discussion during the year. The members of the organization explored in great detail problems discovered in social studies classes. Through research, the students probed for greater understanding of the social sciences.

Mr. Victor Georgas sponsors the club which is led by student officers Neal Radbel, president; William Cohen, vice-president; and Kathy Novosel, secretary.

provide special-interest school activities

Obtaining a broader education of art is one of the main goals of the 41 members of the Expanded Arts Club. Field trips and visual aids enable the students to obtain their goals.

The club serves the school by painting and designing the play setting and by making ornaments for the school Christmas tree.

Regular sessions of the club are held during club periods. The sponsor, Miss Olga Schubkegel, strives to promote a high interest in art during each of the club sessions.

The officers are Tim Erb, president; Bill Haizlip, vice-president; Richard Foust, secretary; and Helen Sabol, treasurer.

Students learn in Latin, Russian, and Highlighting the year's activities, Junior Classical League sponsored a Roman banquet. This fete is held every two years with the students coming in Roman dress and eating in the style which was enjoyed by the Latins. Among the other activities of the club were the Saturnalia celebration, the playing of Habeo, and the plays presented depicting Roman life. During several club meetings, members also enjoyed slides which had been taken in Italy showing various Roman structures.

Over 90 students belong to J.C.L., which meets once a month throughout the school year. These pupils of Latin come together to learn about the Roman customs, life, and language. Miss Katherine Harrold and Miss Margaret Work sponsor the club.

For the school year the members chose as their presiding officers Bill Phillips, president; Irene Bodie, vice-president; Tim McKern, secretary; and Joan Whitfield, treasurer.

The Hammond High School pupils who studied in Germany during the summer of 1962 contributed much to the sessions of the German Club held this year. In attempting to acquaint members with German history and customs, the student travelers showed slides accentuating the beauties of the Rhineland. Other members increased their vocabulary and understanding of the language by participating in a Christmas play written by Keith Sullivan.

The German Club officers are president, Lois Johnson; vice-president, Pat Brossart; secretary, Betsy Bailey; and treasurer, Keith Sullivan.

In planning a Russian banquet which highlighted the year's activities, Russian Club members became acquainted with Russian life and culture, as well as improving their speaking ability.

Preparing for a Christmas party with a pinata to add South American flavor was one of the main activities of the Spanish Club headed by Dale Spivack, president; Bill Haugh, vice-president; Carol Hjertquist, secretary; and Joy Gray, treasurer.

In addition to these activities, the club members (sponsored by Miss Catalina Restrepo) played Spanish games, listened to exchange students speak about their homelands, and viewed slides of Colombia and Puerto Rico.

Work on the organization's newspaper Le Ragout and word games occupied the time of the French Club members. To supplement these undertakings, the group played French scrabble, saw slides of France, and traveled to the Versailles Art Exhibit at the Art Institute in Chicago.

President Connie Murray is aided in administration by Mary Jo Kennedy, vice-president; Twila Reed, secretary; and Bonnie Denmark, treasurer. Editor of the club publication is Sandy Levin, assisted by George Jurich and Maura Tauber. Miss Mae Kessing is sponsor.

Occupational plans

Interesting girls in a nursing career is the main goal of the Future Nurses Club sponsored by Miss Zelda Black.

Some of the many activities that the members participated in this year were the presentation of a skit entitled "What! No Aspirin?" for the P.T.A.; trips to various hospitals, including Mount Siani and Wesley Memorial Hospitals; and the care and feeding of patients at St. Margaret Hospital. A Red Cross course was also taken by the members during the year.

With a membership of some 60 girls and remaining one of the largest clubs at Hammond High School, the officers are Carol Robenhorst, president; Pam Good, vice-president; Carol Byrd, secretary; and Pat Eder, treasurer.

To exemplify the holiday spirit, Diane Shaw leads the Future Nurses in the singing of French Christmas carols.

form nuclei for Hammond High activities

The desire to study future career plans forms the purpose of Hammond High School's occupational clubs.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald Mor-etton, the Business Occupations Club supplies career information for seniors who are contemplating employment in business and industry upon graduation.

An interesting activity of the organization is the follow-up study of business graduates.

Potential teachers may learn more about their future career through the panel discussions, reports, and exploratory instruction undertaken by the Future Teachers of America.

To encourage the best students to go into teaching and to guide those who are planning to teach are the goals of this club sponsored by Mr. James Soderquist.

Officers consist of Ruth Grupe, president;
Donna Jean Slack, vice-president; Jeanette
Pease, secretary; and Carol Bruell, treasurer.

Coordinator, confers with (l-r) Mr. Robert Atkins (E.I. DuPont de Nemours Co.) and Mr. Robert Orr (manager, Jack Fox and Sons). Guest speakers are scheduled to conduct guidance sessions each month through the auspices of the Business Occupations Club. Topics for discussion are concerned with presenting information on the occupational opportunities in business and commercial enterprises.

One of the most active organizations at Hammond High School, the Dramatic Club helps students develop a lasting interest in, and an appreciation for, the theater arts.

Sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Andersen, the club provides the members with the opportunity to develop skills and practice in the stage craft. As part of the production staff during both school plays, the club composed the make-up crew.

In addition to these activities, the group attends plays and presents skits during club meetings.

President Stuart Sax is aided in the administration of the Dramatic Club by David Barton, vice-president; Diane Fuller, secretary; and Susan Harris, treasurer.

art of speaking

Humorous, dramatic, and poetry reading, as well as original oratory, are the activities of the Speech Arts Club sponsored by Mrs. Gail Graves.

The 42 members attend speech meets throughout the state and perform before experienced judges. Accurate and meaningful interpretation of literary works is the goal of the students.

The officers of the club are Jim Kretz, president; Leslie Kelly, vice-president; David Cook, treasurer; and Lynda Skogan, secretary.

During a practice session, Speech Arts Club members (l-r) Tom Monberg, Cathie Benson, and Mary Ellen Boyle pause to admire a trophy symbolizing the organization's accomplishments.

"To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character"—this is the purpose of the Hi-Y Club according to the sponsors, Mr. Bernarr Folta and Mr. Paul Werskey.

Consisting of 51 boys who are interested in benefiting others, the club's yearly activities were limited mainly to working at the concession stands at both football and basketball games.

The officers are Larry Phillips, president; Ken Fleming, vice-president; Roy Jones, treasurer; Bob Brazlovitz, secretary; Ron Holder, chaplain; Phil Schmidt, sergeant-at-arms.

In conjunction with the Hi-Y Club is the Y-Teens, an organization of 20 girls formed primarily for the same reason. Sponsored by Mrs. Marion Halfacre, this group is affiliated with the Y.W.C.A. of Hammond and works in co-operation with this organization. Their service project for this year was the collection of clothing which was then handed over to the Board of Education for distribution to needy families.

Officers include Susan Ziemba, president; Rosemary Peters, vice-president; Yolanda Lozano, secretary; and Karen Szakacs, treasurer.

HHS service clubs

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Ermina Donham, Mr. Dennis Burdock, and Mrs. Lois Chang, the Junior Red Cross participated in many activities this year. Among them were selling candy after school to raise money for their projects, providing a Christmas gift for a boy and girl in Hammond, and sponsoring an auditorium session.

Each year a gift chest consisting of school and personal supplies is sent to another country designated by the National Red Cross.

Mr. Karl Deak, assistant wrestling coach and English instructor, taught a first aid course to the 25 members.

Officers this year are Donna Stivers, president; Bill Phillips, vice-president; Roberta Hewit, treasurer; and Diane Rochelle, secretary.

Before leaving school at the end of seventh period, students stop to purchase candy from Mrs. Ermina Donham, co-sponsor of Hammond High School's Junior Red Cross, and her club assistants. Money from the candy sales finances the organization's projects.

Pupil's devote services

The maintenance and operation of movie projectors, slide machines, and tape recorders and the scheduling of films compose the purpose of the Visual Aids Department, which is headed by Mr. Jay Wood. Students work after school and during study halls to serve the school and obtain knowledge in the skillful operation of audio-visual equipment.

Under the administration of Mrs. Geneva Boyd, cafeteria director, students aid in the operation of the lunch room. Pupil workers assist in counter service, perform kitchen duties, cashier, and type menus.

Aiding the school in another capacity, student volunteers assist in administration of the school library, directed by Mrs. Jessica Rich. Each period a room-worker takes attendance, shelves books, and performs odd jobs. A magazine-worker obtains magazines requested by students and reshelves them after use, and a desk-worker heads the circulation of books.

The distribution of school publications is carried on by student volunteers. Dunes agents sold 1,300 copies of the yearbook to the student body. Herald agents distribute issues of the school paper and literary magazine to their respective homerooms. Mr. R. H. Dunham, business advisor to the Publications Department, keeps account of all sales.

Sponsored by Miss Georgia Anderson, members work at soc-hops and other activities, such as class parties and orientation programs, and make posters to boost school dances and events.

Cultivating interest in chess is the objective of the Chess Club under the sponsorship of Mr. Richard Dennis. Members meet each Monday night after school.

This year the club participated in the Intra-school Chess Tournament in November. Presiding over the club are Bob Schoop, president; Fred Kraus, vice-president; and Leonard Duszynski, secretary-treasurer.

To stimulate participation in girls' athletics and to promote ideals of health and sportsmanship are the goals of Hammond High School's Girls' Athletic Association. Membership in the club is maintained by earning a minimum of 30 points per year in organized activities. The purpose of awarding points is to encourage regularity of attendance and to furnish a uniform basis for awards.

Members participate in unorganized activities such as tennis, skating, and bicycling, and organized activities such as volleyball, archery, tumbling, bowling, and basketball. Mrs. Barbara Robbins is the sponsor of this crusader for physical and mental fitness among the nation's youth.

National organizations recognize outstanding

Sponsoring the debate tourney was the major activity undertaken this year by the National Forensic League under the direction of Mr. Robert McLean.

Consisting of approximately 50 members, the club's main objective is to promote speech and debate activities.

Officers are James Kretz, president; and Violette Summers, secretary.

With leadership, service, character, and scholarship the basis for membership, Hammond High School's Senior National Honor Society boasts over 70 students. During the last semester of the junior year, the top 5% of the Class of 1963 were inducted, with the remainder of qualified students taken in during the first semester of their senior year.

Those students who were members during their junior year participated in the initiation "candle ceremony," the spring charity drive, and served as ushers at the commencement exercises.

Sponsored by Mr. Homer Hightower, senior counselor, the officers are Bill Bower, president; Oren Conway, vice-president; Eileen Lynn, secretary; and John Mitchell, treasurer.

Comprised of members of the Publications Department, the Quill and Scroll chapter is sponsored by Mr. A. T. Bolt.

Quill and Scroll is a national high school honorary society for journalism students. To be considered for membership, a student must maintain a "B" average and work on either a high school newspaper or yearbook.

The National Merit Scholarship Program is a nationwide search for students who demonstrate extraordinary ability on the qualifying tests and in the classroom.

Seven students (Oren Conway, Leonard Duszynski, Gary Friedman, Pete Kambiss, Susan Mulligan, Tim Rowton, and John White) were finalists from Hammond High.

At the end of the 1962 school year, the Quill and Scroll chapter banquet provided the setting for staff members of both publications to receive awards and to hear the announcement of the 1963 editorial positions. Clockwise around table—Ami Crumpacker, Phyllis Wood, Jill Levenberg, Lenore Skanik, Jere Stephan, Lynne Balsley, Carol Hutton, Sue Eaton.

The leaves of the "Family Tree of '63" characterize the students—young men and women striving for an education to secure future success and satisfaction.

From the novelty experienced by freshmen in their first year to the nostalgia encountered by seniors in their last, and from the vivacity demonstrated by sophomores at play to the vivaciousness depicted by juniors at the prom, students fashion the character of the school in all of its many parts.

As the leaves of a tree differ in appearance, so do the students differ in interests and ideals. Yet viewed as a whole, the leaves form the fullness of the tree, as the students form the backbone of the institution. As the leaves flower, flourish, and then fall, so do the pupils begin their high school careers, enjoy its offerings, and then graduate—one cycle completed in Hammond High School in 1962-1963.

Seniors made up the Class of 1963 -

OREN CONWAY

Valedictorian of Hammond High School's Class of 1963.

Oren Conway, valedictorian of the Class of 1963, was as successful during his three years at Hammond High School as he was in his freshman year at Wilbur Wright. Oren's titles of National Honor Society Vice-President and National Merit Finalist illustrate his splendid academic achievements.

Being a member of the House of Representatives, Oren showed a keen interest in the school Association. He has also served as secretary of the H-Men's Council and was captain of the Western Division Champion Tennis team.

Oren's accomplishments in sports, as well as in academic subjects, have given him a wide background for his college life at the University of Michigan.

Twila Reed, salutatorian of the Class of 1963, has been a member of many extra-curricular activities in addition to achieving many and diversified scholastic honors.

She was a member of the House of Representatives, the Senate, Junior National Honor Society, Senior National Honor Society, Swimming Club, Girls' Athletic Association, Speech Arts Club, Junior Classical League, French Club (secretary), Hammond Youth Council, and Future Teachers' Club.

In addition, Twila was chosen by the students of the senior class and the faculty to receive the coveted D.A.R. Good Citizenship award.

Outside school Twila loves sports—mainly swimming, horseback riding, and skiing.

IN MEMORIAM

James S. Conjalka, a Hammond High School sophomore, passed away suddenly April 6, 1963 after a short illness. A member of Miss Margaret Work's homeroom, Jim participated in many school activities and gained many friends who will long remember him. To his family, we, the students of Hammond High extend our deepest sympathy.

Sophomores from Hammond High School who studied in Trier, Germany, in the summer of 1962 welcome Frau Friedel Mahrbach, community leader in Trier for the Indiana University language program, as she arrives for a brief visit at Hammond High. Frau Mahrbach (center) came from Germany to the United States in February to confer about the 1963 study trip. Greeting her at the school entrance are (l-r) Lyn Kraus, Pam Kraegel, Suzanne Pochter, Jan MacDonald, Shirley Kruit, and Terry Levin.

Advertising

Advertising characterizes patronage
 —the linkage between the local merchant and the school buyer.

From the local malt shop to the loveliest dress salon, and from the best car dealer to the biggest dairy, young people spend their money and time.

Through this junction of student and salesman, teacher and tradesman, administrator and agent, the school becomes enrooted in the heart of the community
 —an implantation strong in Hammond,
 Indiana, in 1962-1963.

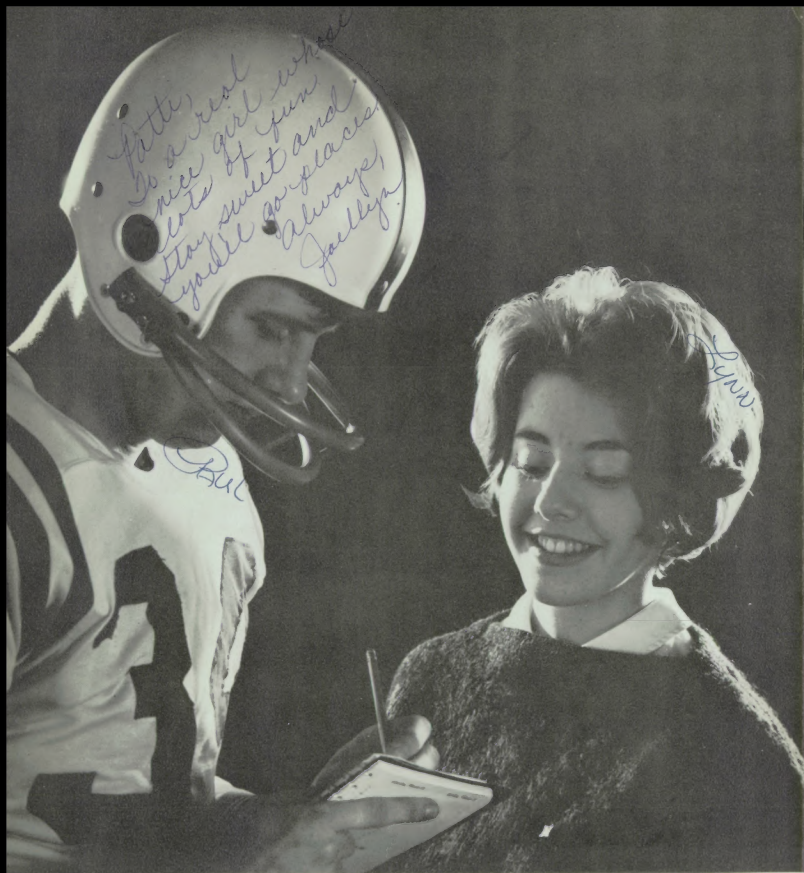

Patti—
 Congratulations, you made it! I Sure do wish I could say the same. Best of luck always, it has been great knowing you

the past two have been more fun and have gone faster. You're such a good friend. <sup>Our Congratulations</sup> to the Members of the had our good <sup>Senior Class</sup> but we had enough good time to make up for them. Now as we leave I hope we can go on being good friends and having our good <sup>senior</sup> friends time.

Be good to the <sup>senior</sup> don't do 'em bad.
Mine got a long time to look forward to & I hope it's a fun one. I wish you & Charlie the best of luck.

Remember the "eat" from or better yet forget it. No really it wouldn't have been right unless us three went together. Us three being Dave, Bruce & dear old "Becks". Well I'm running out of energy & words. <sup>BOTTLING COMPANY</sup>

MUNSTER, INDIANA

As a member of the Senior Class, very soon you will be making a decision regarding a big step into the future. Perhaps your decision will be to go on for further education. Or it may be, you will be looking for the job of your choice. In either event, this decision will affect and shape your future life in many ways.

Regardless of what you decide, we hope that the Inland Steel Company will be a part of your future. Many graduates are currently involved in successful careers here at the Harbor Works as part of the nation's basic steel industry.

Steel mill work today is highly complex, involving automated production lines which require people who can be trained in skilled jobs. Most of the jobs are involved directly in the steel-making process while others are available in the laboratories or in various departmental offices. Regardless of your interests, excellent opportunities exist with Inland Steel.

In addition to excellent paying jobs and an outstanding benefit program, Inland offers a variety of on-the-job training programs plus the Purdue-Inland Program. This Program, offered to a full time employee, provides training in the areas of steelmaking, mechanics, and electricity.

Plan now to investigate the many opportunities for your future with Inland Steel Company.

Pattie,
we all know each other for so, and a year or about a year or really enjoyed knowing such a sweet girl to be your a riot

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has become a major employer in the UK, and its growth has been a major factor in the overall growth of the economy.

The public sector has also become a major employer of women. In 1980, women made up 40% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 50%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of women in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people with disabilities. In 1980, people with disabilities made up 1% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 5%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people with disabilities in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from ethnic minorities. In 1980, people from ethnic minorities made up 2% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 10%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from ethnic minorities in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower social classes. In 1980, people from the lower social classes made up 30% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 40%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower social classes in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower income groups. In 1980, people from the lower income groups made up 30% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 40%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower income groups in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower education levels. In 1980, people from the lower education levels made up 30% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 40%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower education levels in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from the lower health status. In 1980, people from the lower health status made up 30% of the public sector workforce, and by 1995, this had increased to 40%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from the lower health status in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.
